

New PG programmes

The University of Cincinnati (UC), US, has recently announced new postgraduate programmes for Indian students. Vishakha Sharma reports

The University of Cincinnati (UC) has recently announced three new postgraduate programmes — Master's of engineering (MEng), MS finance and Master's in Law (LLM) — for Indian students who are interested in pursuing a Master's degree in the US.

>> MASTER'S OF ENGINEERING

For students who want to earn a Master's degree in one-year, UC's new Master's of engineering (MEng) programme is an option for students or working professionals as they earn a Master's degree from an American university in a short period of time.

Scholarships

Admitted students receive university graduate scholarships and/or assistantships that cover all or part of tuition and living expenses. For details, visit www.ceas.uc.edu

>> MS IN FINANCE

The Master's of science in finance programme at the Lindner College of Business is designed to give students the analytical skills needed for a successful professional career in today's global financial markets.

Scholarships

Admitted students receive University Graduate Scholarships and / or assistantships that cover all or part of tuition and living expenses.

>> MASTER'S IN LAW

This nine-month programme provides a substantive introduction to the US legal process while allowing students to focus their studies on their own areas of interest.

Scholarships

Multiple scholarships are available to highly qualified students. For details, visit law.uc.edu/institutes-centers/llm

6 India is our largest international student population for last 15 years

Jonathan Weller, director, international admissions at UC, who was in India to make the announcements, says, "India has been one of our largest international student populations for the past 15 years, with most Indian students pursuing postgraduate programmes. We are, therefore, announcing several new postgraduate programmes in engineering, finance and law for Indian students with substantial scholarships to make their studies at UC as affordable as possible."
